Lecturer / Associate Professor of Real Estate Finance and Economics or Real Estate

Ref no.: 44085 & 43647

Deadline for applications: 10 September 2023

Interview dates: 3-4 October 2023

Ideal start date: January 2024 (or before is preferable)

Henley Business School (University of Reading) is seeking to appoint 2 new faculty members at either Lecturer or Associate Professor level in Real Estate Finance and Economics or more generally Real Estate to strengthen our world-leading department of Real Estate and Planning and to consolidate a recent phase of expansion (see job advert here: https://jobs.reading.ac.uk/Job/JobDetail?JobId=12211).

Particularly, we are seeking to appoint active researchers starting to develop some seniority in their field, with a potential or record (depending upon the level) of internationally recognized publications. Within the department, Henley Business School and the University of Reading there will be plenty of opportunities to develop and carry out original and impactful research supported by effective mechanisms of resource allocations. We provide the environment for researchers to work collaboratively as well as individually. We have a vibrant student community (incl. 20+ PhD students), and the successful candidate will teach and lead modules, across a range of undergraduate and postgraduate programs. We have also recently added an ExecEd offer, with opportunities to engage with business and policy makers.

As our teaching approach is normally research led, we welcome applicants with research and teaching interests linked to real estate finance and economics and or any subject area relevant to the real estate discipline.

- Real Estate Finance
- Asset Pricing/Valuation
- Corporate Finance
- Household Finance / Mortgage Finance
- Behavioural Finance/Economics
- Urban and Real Estate Economics

- Real Estate Development
- Sustainability
- Environmental Economics/Planning
- Infrastructure and Transport
- Real Estate Technology

The best candidates will have:
- A PhD in Real Estate, Finance, Economics, or Management
- Potential or a proven track record of internationally recognized publications (depending upon level)
- Demonstrable skills in high-quality teaching in one (or more) of the areas above
- Experience in leadership roles in research and/or teaching (for Associate Professor level)
- Exposure to engagement with businesses and policy makers

Key documents in your online application

- A Supporting Statement which includes the following information:
  o The level you intend to apply for: Lecturer or Associate Professor o Your motivation in applying for this position and what makes you an outstanding candidate.

- o How you will contribute to the Department of Real Estate and Planning and Henley Business School
- o Your potential contribution to teaching and learning in the department.
- o Your research plans both short and long-term.

- A Curriculum Vitae (CV), including a publication record.

- Separate to your online application please email one article as an example of research quality (in PDF format) to repschooloffice@reading.ac.uk before the closing date.

- To apply please use the link below:

https://jobs.reading.ac.uk/Job/JobDetail?JobId=12211